

Kiwanis Family Conference 2007

Hey everybody!!!

I hope that each and every one of you had a fantastic October! October is a great time of the year... not only was it Key to College Month but it was also when Kiwanis Family Conference was held. Ok so this event is seriously amazing, and I have to say that this year it was better than ever. For those of you that didn't get the chance to make it out to Black Mountain, here's a little recap of what went on.

When we got there Friday night we had dinner, played a few ice breakers, and then we broke up into teams. Clayton King, our key note speaker, gave his presentation on how being a leader is about listening to those around you and being able to relate their stories to you and your stories to them. If you don't take the time to step back and listen to those around you then you will never be able to lead them effectively. After that we broke up into teams and did a few fun games. Then there was the dance... well at least that's what they called it. It was so short but so much fun at the same time.

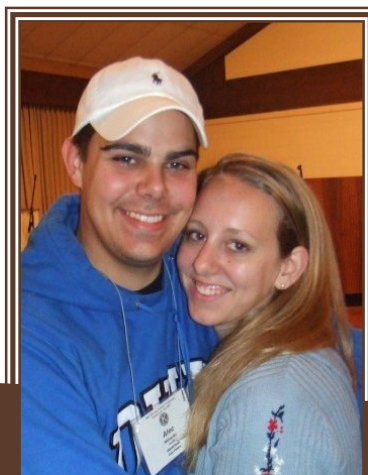

Saturday rolled around; attendees got up super early to go and watch the sun rise and then it was off to breakfast. We did some more activities, but the day was geared toward getting ready for SKITS!!!—the most interesting time of the weekend. There were more team activities and large group sessions...fun, fun, fun. Then there was boundary breaking. Now this was probably the only time the entire weekend where we were serious, quiet, and emotional.

Sunday we wrapped things up with some closing activities and session. Then all the cameras came out. I have never seen so many flashes going off at one time.

KFC is an amazing opportunity to meet new people and make some great friends from all levels of the Kiwanis International families. I really hope that for those that got to go this year had an amazing time; I know I did. And for those that didn't get to make it out, there's always next year, hope to see you there!

Robert Dodson

Hello again, Carolinas District! I write this now a mere week before the occurrence of an event so greatly anticipated that even I can hardly contain myself. I speak of course, of FALL DLSSP 2007!!! (wild party!) We shall be renovating the Kiwanis cottage at the Boys and Girls Homes of North Carolina at Lake Waccamaw. The BGHNC serve to help children in at-risk situations by providing housing and a stable environment for them to grow up in. The Kiwanis cottage is one of several locations on the BGHNC campus that provides housing for the children, and we shall paint and perform various other tasks to make it a more suitable living situation. If, as I hope, you manage to finish the given tasks ahead of schedule, we shall move on to help out elsewhere, and prepare another location for a similar renovation. Also, through a small stint of effort, we have managed to bring DLSSP to you free of charge, so I hope to see as many of you there as possible!

Capital:

Hey Capital Division! I hope you all were able to make it through midterm time alive! I thought I was finished and could slow down for at least a little while but then my teachers sprung papers on me. So in lieu of being extremely busy, as I am sure you all are too, I have decided to come up with a fun game that you can use as a study break. While thinking of a game, during my first class on Monday, I was in the process of doing my daily ritual of completing the Suduko puzzle in the Daily Tarheel (UNC's school newspaper). Then it came to me – I would put in a Sudoku puzzle! But somehow it needed to be related to Circle K so I dropped that idea. Later that night my roommate was using her procrastination skills while working on a humongous book of Sudok. She kept mumbling letters to herself, which was weird because Sudoku has numbers so I asked her what she was doing. She was doing Sudoku with letters! So I rehabilitated mine with the idea of using letters. And the first word that came to me just happened to be nine letters! So I hope you enjoy this Carolinas version of Sudoku!

UNICEF and Circle K International

Worldwide, nearly 1.1 billion people lack access to safe drinking water, and two in five people are without basic sanitation. In the majority of countries in Africa, Asia and the Americas, lack of water has created a state of emergency. 20% of the global population is subject to the increased poverty, high child mortality rates, depressed education levels and political instability that often come along with water crisis. Out of the 2.2 million unsafe drinking water deaths in 2004, 90% were children under the age of five, and a lack of clean, safe drinking water is estimated to kill an outrageous 4,500 children per day.

Through a new partnership, CKI members will raise funds for the Six Cents Initiative. By raising even a small donation, CKI members can help save a child by helping them get the rehydrating salts they need to survive the diseases they often acquire through drinking contaminated waters. If CKI can raise $500,000 over the years, UNICEF will be able to purchase ALL of the following:

The Kiwanis Family

Kiwanis Sponsorship of Circle K

Kathleen Marsocci

Stephanie Northcott

Did you know that November is Kiwanis Family Month? If you said yes, then power to you! If you said no, that's quite alright—you learn something new every day! Since November is dedicated to the K-family, it is a great time to call your surrounding K-family relatives and plan a gathering. I think that the distance between Kiwanis clubs, Circle K clubs, and Key clubs can be related to the distance we college students might feel toward our family back home. Although we would like to see them more often, sometimes we get caught up in our own club's events and forget about interclub relations. But have no fear! Kiwanis Family Month is a clear solution. It is an entire month dedicated to creating and maintaining relationships between the Kiwanis family. During November, you could plan a service project and invite all of the Kiwanis branches to pitch in and help. Together, you could make a difference in your community as one happy family. Another idea would be to plan an exciting social for your K-family relatives. You could have a K-family bingo night, plan a fun supper, or even arrange a complete Kiwanis Family fun day. If your November is already jam packed with Circle K events, a simple way to include your K-family is to invite the local Builders club, Key club, Aktion club, or Kiwanis club members to your Circle K meeting and your events. This way, different branches could get a small taste of how your club operates and feel a closer connection. When it comes to K-family bonding, the sky is the limit. Make the initiative during November to create or enhance your club's K-family connections.

November is Kiwanis Family Month. Did you know that your sponsoring Kiwanis Club has annual requirements for sponsorship? Below is the list. It may seem basic, but if all 10 areas are covered, you will have a wonderful relationship with your sponsor.

Annual requirements of sponsorship:

1. Appoint a Kiwanis Committee on Circle K and ensure the committee receives adequate orientation.
2. Ensure Kiwanis members attend every Circle K meeting and as many other Circle K functions as possible.
3. Maintain an expense line item in the Kiwanis club's service account to support the activities of the Circle K club.
4. Work with the college/university administration to secure a faculty advisor for the Circle K club.
5. Ensure that all Circle K members pay annual dues, and that an active membership of at least 20 members is maintained.*
6. Ensure Circle K club officers receive proper training following election.
7. Hold a planning session involving the leadership of both clubs.
8. Host or participate in two joint activities involving the membership of both clubs.
9. Invite two Circle K members to attend every regular Kiwanis meeting.
10. Ensure Circle K members attend conventions and conferences.

*Effective 10/01, two-year institutions and institutions with enrollments of less than 1,000 students can charter and maintain an active membership of at least 15 dues paid members.

What should you do if your relationship with your sponsor isn't what you would like? Take the initiative, make a phone call (not e-mail) to your Kiwanis Advisor and/or Kiwanis President. Discuss what you would like to see and offer suggestions. Have a list of suggestions written out before you make the phone call.

How do you get Kiwanians to your meetings?

- ⇒ Attend a Kiwanis meeting and bring invitations, hand them out to the membership.
- ⇒ Attend a Kiwanis meeting and personally ask the person sitting beside you. People are more likely to attend if they are asked, it makes them feel special.
- ⇒ Remind Kiwanians that if they bring 4 people to your meeting they will get credit for an interclub. Kiwanians track this just as much as Circle K's do.
- ⇒ Bring your club bell to the Kiwanis meeting and swap bells. The Kiwanis club will get theirs back when they come to your meeting.

Once you've got Kiwanians at your meeting what do you do?

- ⇒ Ask the Kiwanian to speak about their past and upcoming projects. (Ask him/her about this prior to attending the meeting).
- ⇒ Introduce the Kiwanian as a special guest. Be sure to make it personable ex: role in the club, what he/she does for a living, favorite service project, favorite toothpaste etc.
- ⇒ Have a member sit next to the Kiwanian, don't let him/her sit alone in the back of the room.
- ⇒ If you're doing a service project or icebreaker at the meeting, ask him/her to participate.
- ⇒ Ask him/her if they would like to join you in future service projects.
- ⇒ Last but not least, invite him/her to future meetings.

Need more help, talk with your Circle K Lieutenant Governor, other clubs that have good relationships, or talk with me.

UNCG has become a prime example of membership development. In the 2006-07 year, the average club meeting attendance was 10-15 members, including officers. Now, the membership has more than doubled and consists of an average of 40 members at each meeting! The key to their attendance increase has been advertising. Unlike the past, UNCG Circle K set up a booth at orientations over the summer where they gained over 100 prospective members. Thanks to the creative planning of meetings, attendance has remained to be around 40 members.

Alyssa Gadsden (USC-Aiken)

Alyssa Gadsden is a wonderful and hard-working when it comes to helping others. She is an active member of Circle K International at the University of South Carolina Aiken. She loves to help others and make sure that the job gets done. When Circle K at USC-Aiken had their Maintenance Party for the staff members on campus, she volunteered to help serve food and said the blessings of the food before it was served. She also stepped up to the plate when the members needed a ride to Fall Fest back in September. When someone asks Alyssa to do something, she steps up and gets it done with a smile on her face! Good job Alyssa!

Tomorrow Fund Benefits Duke Circle K International Service Project

By: Jovana Pavisic, Duke University CKI Club President

For the past three years, members of Duke University Circle K have traveled to a Latin American country to perform service in impoverished communities. In partnership with Cultural Convergence International, a non-profit organization founded by one of the club members, the club has been able to establish youth sports programs in several communities in the Dominican Republic and Ecuador, and has initiated other service projects such as installing water filtration systems, providing educational services, rebuilding community centers, libraries, and baseball fields, and bringing much needed medical equipment. The communities we have traveled to are highly impoverished areas of the world where opportunities of any sort are minimal. Our mission is to provide the youth of the communities with an alternative to street life, the ability to obtain higher education, and the chance to break the cycle of poverty. By giving the children of the community the opportunity to play sports, we help them learn valuable life lessons such as teamwork and responsibility, provide them and their families with a valuable pastime, and that in turn, helps the entire community build a framework upon which new opportunities for community members can be established. We also act as mentors to the children, teaching them about where we come from, combating stereotypes and misconceptions they may have foreign cultures or people.

The Tomorrow Fund has provided us with invaluable resources to accomplish our mission for the last three years. Although we are able to obtain much of the sports equipment and medical supplies through donations, we often need further funds to best complete our on-the-ground service projects. These projects have been to rejuvenate a "sandlot" baseball field and build concrete bleachers for it, to renovate a community library where the children of the community come to play and learn, and to paint and install electricity in a community center where community members hold monthly town meetings. By applying to the Tomorrow Fund, we have been able to secure these much needed funds and they have been put to very good use. For our first project, the Tomorrow Fund granted us $1,000 for the renovation of the baseball field project which has left a brand new baseball field and bleachers for the children to use for their practices and games. Our second project received $500 from the Tomorrow Fund, money that went to the community library renovations, as well as to buying a projector for the library. This enabled us to create a media room for the kids, through which we initiated movie nights for the teenagers in the community, where they are able to watch and then discuss controversial or inspirational films to learn more about issues pertaining to their lives and futures. Finally, the Tomorrow Fund's grant of $500 for our past trip allowed us to buy equipment to set up a water filtration system at an elementary school in a rural, impoverished community, which now provides five gallons of clean drinking water for the children each day.

The Tomorrow Fund has helped Duke Circle K for the past three years to buy the necessary equipment to provide the most service and help to children in impoverished communities in the Dominican Republic and Ecuador. Their funds have allowed us to build opportunities for children to play and learn a sport, gain new educational opportunities, and fight the cycle of poverty. By helping the children find opportunities for success we have left each community with a brighter future. We are very grateful to the Tomorrow Fund for giving us the opportunity to serve the children of the world and are very excited for planning a new project for the following year. We have already received a new donation of $500 from the Tomorrow Fund for this project and we will make sure the money goes toward helping as many children as possible in these impoverished areas.

A big
CONGRATULATIONS
goes out to Eastern
Carolina University Circle K!
Let's welcome them into the Carolinas District!!!

New Club Building

Tom Currier

We have a new club in the Carolinas. Eastern Carolina University has received their charter and is now officially part of Circle K.

Elon College is still a dream, but hopefully a good dream. Kaitlan Spedden, a student at Elon is attempting to start a club. She has met with some resistance from the administration, but we are not letting them deter us from our mission. We are trying to get the Burlington Kiwanis Club to help convince the College.

With the help of Stephanie Phillips, a Kiwanian with the Conway club, and former Circle K'er, we are trying to restart the Circle K club in Coastal Carolina University in Myrtle Beach. They have had one meeting, but unfortunately, the attendance was less than expected. With Stephanie at the helm, we are still optimistic for the future.

Kiwanis Family Bonding: K-Family Picnic (USC-Aiken)

On September 27, 2007 there was the K-Family Picnic that took place at the Odell Weeks Recreation Center in Aiken, SC. All levels of the K-Family came together to bond with one another. Circle K International at USC-Aiken had hosted the game called K-Family Bingo. Everyone enjoyed the food, activities, and meeting people.

What Can Circle K Do For YOU?!

Did you know Circle K has 12,288 active members worldwide!? So maybe you didn't join Circle K as just something to add to your résumé for when you apply to graduate school or start looking for your first full-time job, but Circle K can help you in this department. Of course, all of the service projects and work you do through your home clubs is great and will look good to a potential employer, but it doesn't make you stand out from the other 12,287 Circle K'ers that are also involved. So what can you do!?

Come to district events! Circle K offers several leadership conferences throughout the year that look great to the people you want to impress. Even better, they're jam packed with lots of down time for playing games and getting to know one another, which means you'll spend an entire weekend sharing in the Circle K-love. There are District Large Scale Service Projects as well, offered twice a year, that are other great opportunities Circle K has to offer. Faculty members of the admissions office of your dream graduate or medical school will be impressed that you were willing to give up your weekend for such an event, and it'll prove to them that you're really on top of your studies when you don't fall behind in your course work just because you went away for one weekend. They'll also take note of your initiative and willingness to break out of your comfort zone; not everyone is willing to take the extra effort to expand their horizons outside of their campus.

"That sounds great actually! How do I signup?" I'm so glad you asked, because that's where I come in! So what is the best way to stay caught up on district events? Check out the calendar on the district website, of course! It's updated frequently with all the dates of upcoming events as soon as they're officially set, which will give you time to plan ahead, because I can certainly relate to just how busy life can be for a college student. If you have your own Google calendar, you can also add a district event right to your own page! Want a Google calendar? Simply create an account through Google; it's entirely free! There's also an event page available with descriptions and flyers for the closest upcoming events to give you more details about what to expect and specifics on how to register for the event. Of course, if you see an event on the calendar that you want to know more about, and it hasn't quite made it to the events page, just send me a quick e-mail. I'll be happy to answer any questions you may have; the contacts for all of the district board members are also on the website. You can e-mail any one of us directly, and we'll be happy to help.

As always, the website is a resource for you, so don't hesitate to send me an e-mail with any comments or suggestions. I'm happy to work hard to improve the site so that it is a great resource for you.

K-Love,
Ashley Hedges

DUES

Dues are due this month! Anybody who has not paid dues yet is not a member at the moment. Remember, it is important to pay dues to not only be able to attend events and have your hours counted towards International, but also to be covered by Circle K's insurance.

Dues must be in by November 30th, otherwise they are considered late. Clubs must have at least 20 members paid for by this time in order to stay in good standing.

Dues are $33 per member. Of this, $25 goes to International, and $8 to the district. Your club may also choose to charge a club fee to help raise money for your Circle K club.

Hello Carolinas District Secretaries & Treasurers!

If you didn't get the chance to attend the Kiwanis Family Conference this past weekend, then you missed a great time full of K-family bonding with Kiwanis members, Key Club members, as well as Circle K members from other districts.

Although you might not been able to attend, other members from your club may have, and it is important that this event gets logged correctly on the monthly report form. It is considered to be a Kiwanis Family event, and the hours are 40+ driving time.

Secretaries, make sure to check the listserv for a new monthly report template form. It is important that clubs raise money for the Tomorrow Fund, so there will be a line added so your club can log the amount of money it has raised for this International fund.

Otherwise, if you take a look at the update of reported hours, you can see what our district needs to work on. Raising funds for the Tomorrow Fund is important to give all Circle K clubs a chance to plan activities that they may not be able to fund. Raising money for the Boys and Girls Home is also very important. Not only does the Carolinas District have a goal set to raise $7,500 towards the Home, but the Boys and Girls Home is our District Service Project. For this reason, it is important that we as a district support it as much as we can, not only with service, but also with monetary donations.

Interclub hours are also really important because it allows us to bond as a district! We need to come together as a family to spend time together doing service as well as having fun! Make sure to send out an open invitation to Circle K clubs around the district to events you are planning. This can easily be done through the numerous listservs. Also, make sure you take a road trip every once in a while to visit other clubs in the district. However, don't forget an interclub only counts if there are at least 2 members from a club of less than 20, 3 members from a club of 20-30, and at least 4 members from a club of 30+.

Last but not least, the Service Initiative is "Turn off TV, Turn on life." Any service project your club does with children between the ages of 6-12 that gets that away from the television, counts as an hour toward the service initiative.

K-Love,
Anita B. Iari

My CKI Story

By: Debbie Rice, Clemson University

I joined Key Club in high school because my sisters were in it and when they were taking a trip to Virginia Beach for DCON, I wanted to go too! So, 2 minutes later I had paid my dues and my name was added to the club roster and convention registration forms. From the moment I arrived at DCON and was flooded with information about the Kiwanis Family and the good that they do, my whole life was changed.

I became a person who seizes every opportunity to help others. I became a person who strives to see the good in other people, and who lends a friendly helping hand to every person I meet. I guess you could say I'm one of those people who has "never met a stranger." Well, maybe that isn't exactly true, but the Kiwanis Family has made me a bit more outgoing, a bit more caring, and definitely a bit friendlier. ☺

When I was a senior in high school, I was president of Key Club and was logging countless service hours and encouraging members to do the same. I met the Kiwanians in my area, and they gave me a scholarship for college—this key moment made it possible for me to attend my dream school—Clemson University. I was excited about going to Clemson, but I was scared too—would my Kiwanis Family adventure end because Clemson did not have a Circle K club?

I came to Clemson in fall of 2003 and immediately got involved on campus. I joined a church and a sorority, but something was missing. I missed the Kiwanis Family that I had grown to love. The second week of school, while sitting in calculus class, I saw something familiar: the Key Club logo on the back of a classmate's T-shirt. I started a conversation with my classmate and learned that Clemson was trying to start a Circle K club. That classmate was Sabrina Lau, the founding secretary of the club, and one of my best friends today. I became a founding member of the Clemson University Circle K club that year. Since then, I have served as president, membership development chair, public relations committee chair, Relay for Life team captain, and most recently, social chair. Throughout college, my love for the Kiwanis Family has grown immensely and Circle K's role in my life has shaped me into the kind of leader and public speaker I am today. I have met incredible people through Circle K's district conventions, Y'All conferences, the Large Scale Service Project, international convention, and through service with my home club. I couldn't ask for a more passionate group of students who care about making a change on our campus, in our community, and worldwide. And we like to have a bunch of fun too.

With graduation looming in the not-too-distant month of December, I am struggling to get my senior design project and senior thesis completed. I also have another sort of to-do list: it includes "make time for Circle K events and friends" and "find a Kiwanis club to join right after graduation." It looks like even though graduation is in a few short months, my time in the K family isn't over yet. And I couldn't be more excited about that
